

SIERRA

Bio

Sierra is an Indie/Electronic Rock/Pop band hailing from Bristol. By early 2022, Sierra have accumulated 15 original recorded and released tracks within a stream of singles and EP's. These included the lockdown inspired single "Concrete Boxes", the Double-A side "Felicity's Crystal/White Noise" along with other popular tracks "Mind/Body" and "The Crows". 2021 Sierra saw a line-up change, which injected the band with new a found energy. The band now consists of Charlie Kempson (Vocals and Bass), Harry Bowden Ford (Guitar and Vocals), Richard Discombe (Guitar and Vocals), Tom Dummer (Drums) and Maeve Clenaghan (Keys) to complete the line-up. Sierra's music is a beautifully crafted blend of electronic rock and Indie rock, which has helped build the band up this sonically pleasing repertoire. Which consists of strong lyricism, clean crisp guitar and atmospheric layering. Similar to the likes of Radiohead, Everything Everything, Tame Impala, The Strokes and so forth. This has also been helped by the bands continuously growing local and wider fanbase which has been boosted by previous live shows across some of Bristol and the South-West's music venues such as The Fleece, Crofters Rights and The Louisiana.

Upon Signing up with Bristol-based Blvnc Records. Sierra's current venture will be the much-anticipated EP release of "Screaming Into The Void". Although currently available on physical copies, this will be available across all stores on the 23rd March 2022. The band are hoping to follow the success of the new EP's headline launch night which saw a near sell-out of Bristol's The Louisiana. With a run of shows with live shows already on the horizon including at Crofters Rights (Supporting Our Nameless Boy on Friday 18th March).

Press

"Music that aims to disregard the arbitrary barriers that surround indie rock and instead expands to include funk and electronica infused touches"

"Unexpected optimism reflected in the music that only gets happier and happier"
